REFERENCE: Your memorandum to me, dated 5 September 1956, same subject

1. Since we received your request, referenced above, members of our respective staffs have discussed the feasibility of conducting Writing Workshop training for your personnel at the [redacted] Center. It appears that general agreement has been reached on the questions involved, and that satisfactory arrangements can be made. 25X

2. We can send an instructor to [redacted] early in January, preferably on 7 January 1957, to offer a version of the Writing Workshop especially adapted to the needs of the [redacted]. Details of the course schedule are still tentative; however, we suggest a course of approximately 40 hours, to be offered for two classes of 12 students, each class to run for 2 weeks, half time. If this plan is satisfactory to you, the Intelligence School will prepare a firm program and will work out remaining details with [redacted] of your Office. 25X

3. I appreciate the very cordial cooperation shown by your staff here at Headquarters and at [redacted] in developing this arrangement, and I am glad that we can provide the service you request. 25X
